

We are family

A CIRCLE OF STRENGTH

I doubt we will ever forget this time

A MESSAGE FROM OUR CO-FOUNDER AND CEO

We closed this fiscal year on July 31, 2017 on a real high! We had spent the entire year celebrating our 30th birthday — thirty years of saving lives. It was a year of accomplishments — the largest number of women ever served, a new mobile coach added, 3D mammography installed, the award as a Center of Excellence received — and a year of amazing blessings due to the incredible generosity and kindness showered upon The Rose.

Yet, the measure of our success to our mission is the total number of uninsured women we are able to serve. Nothing else matters if we don't meet the needs of those who depend upon us the most.

Once again, nearly 7,000 uninsured women turned to us for help. All uninsured who were diagnosed, 152, were navigated into treatment.

We started our new fiscal year with great expectations and set even higher goals. On August 19, we debuted our new Mobile Mammography Health Coach at a private showing for employees, board members and special guests. We were poised to introduce the Coach throughout the State, ready to add more 3D units and had started reviewing floor plans for a brand "new" Rose.

Then on August 26, a once-in-500-year storm hit Southeast Texas and all plans were put on hold. Like most of greater Houston, we focused all our energy on digging out and regrouping. By this time next year, hopefully the devastation of Harvey will be a manageable memory. Perhaps then we can start to dream again and resurrect those plans.

Still I doubt few will ever forget this time — the lives lost, the homes destroyed, the mind-numbing process of recovery. I won't. So many of our employees and far too many of our patients were impacted. I've listened in horror to their stories and am intimately aware of the grief of personal loss.

One in every three uninsured women we've served is recovering from the impact of Harvey. Too many of those same women are facing the year ahead dealing with impossible housing and transportation issues while also trying to recover from breast cancer.

Our women come with amazing resiliency; they all have much to live for. I continue to be profoundly humbled by their courage. At least The Rose was able to help them through the disaster called breast cancer.

Because of the unimaginable kindness and generosity of our donors, people just like you, they have a chance to survive. Your support makes all our services possible. Your support brings hope.

Thank you,

Dorothy Gibbons

The Rose is a Breast Imaging Center of Excellence, a designation that assures you that our organization, all equipment, technologists, physicians and processes have met the highest standards of care in breast imaging. The Rose is the only free standing non-hospital based facility to receive this award in Southeast Texas. Only 13 other facilities in Greater Houston have received this designation.

The meaning of Circles

A MOTHER'S STORY: BEING PART OF THE CIRCLE

Eileen Campbell first introduced me to the concept of Circles. "I wasn't used to asking for help when I was diagnosed," she said, "that's when my friend Dorothy Paterson told me about the circles."

Eileen pointed to the middle of her palm. "Imagine this is the person with breast cancer and surrounding her is a circle that represents her immediate family, her husband or significant other, her children and parents." She drew a circle around the point. "The woman is dealing with her diagnosis while her immediate family is also dealing with other fears and concerns."

“I wasn't used to asking for help when I was diagnosed”

The next circle Eileen described was larger, moving farther from the mid point and represented close friends and co-workers. After that was one for aunts and cousins. Then another, again larger than the others, representing neighbors and church families. A final one was acquaintances and friends of friends.

"People care and want to help. Maybe it's bringing dinner, or helping with housework or running an errand. Those circles all help with healing."

For our uninsured patients, The Rose is a big part of one of their circles and their only hope for survival. For some of our women, their circles don't extend out very far or if they do, they aren't filled with people who have the means to help. That is why we stay with each patient long after treatment begins and throughout her recovery. Thankfully for many, we are there to celebrate her survival. One year, five years, ten years, we rejoice in every day she is granted.

Whatever circle you fall in, your help makes her care and healing possible.

OUR VALUES

HONESTY & INTEGRITY, SPIRITUALITY, FAMILY, DEPENDABILITY, TEAMWORK

Our employees are an important, vital part of The Rose Family. This past year alone, through various events, they were able to raise over $35,000. This money was raised to honor the thirtieth birthday of The Rose.

She decorated her mother's scars

A DAUGHTER'S STORY: PAIN, HOPE AND FAMILY

Fatima's tribute to her mother, Ashma Moosa, left no doubts that breast cancer impacts the entire family. She was only 13 years old, in junior high school and couldn't understand what was going on when her mother was diagnosed and had surgery.

Seeing her once vibrant mother struggling through recovery was hard and as Fatima candidly shared:

"I would catch my mom looking at herself in the mirror and tracing over the scars on her chest and her face would just sink. As women, our appearance is everything for us. Not for other people but for ourselves. But when life hits you with cancer, you don't really have a choice but to embrace the changes your body undergoes."

Fatima decided to combine her passion for henna with self-love.

"I sat my mom down and told her 'don't move.' I traced over every scar on her chest with an intricate henna design. Instead of wanting to hide her scars I wanted her to be proud of them. They are reminders that SHE WON!"

In the same way as a family shares grief and concern, they also share in the joy and thankfulness for survival. That was Fatima's message. Women can survive breast cancer.

Fatima emceed the Hats and Henna High Tea Event, celebrating the 8 year anniversary of her mother's diagnosis. Fatima cited recent studies that showed Asian and Middle Eastern women do not get annual mammograms and stressed the importance of education and awareness. She recognized The Rose for being culturally sensitive to the needs of women.

Thank you Fatima and Ashma — your unceasing efforts to bring awareness is saving lives.

A PATIENT'S STORY: FINDING FAMILY AND CELEBRATING LIFE

The year 2017 was difficult for many families, and Mitra's was no exception. But there was one thing that no one, no event, and no disaster could take away — the triumphant confidence of surviving 10 years being diagnosed with breast cancer.

Mitra was only 27 when she came to The Rose. She was uninsured and gripped with fear remembering how her mom was diagnosed late at 28 years old.

Dr. Janet Hoagland, the leading physician then, made sure not to mistake the tumor as fibroadenoma commonly seen in young women. When Dr. Hoagland insisted on doing a biopsy, Mitra says "it was almost like my mom was there next to me." Dr. Hoagland stayed in touch with her throughout the years – even attending her wedding.

“The Rose was her GPS, navigating her through the complex healthcare system and appointments.”

Another place she found family and comfort was by attending The Rose's support group for young women. "Everyone was further along in their treatments so they were all like big sisters to me and they continue to be."

According to Mitra, The Rose was her GPS, navigating her through the complex healthcare system and appointments. In her book, This Was No Coincidence, she writes of how she witnessed first-hand what other women who lived outside of Texas face when attempting to handle breast cancer without anyone holding their hand through the entire process. They are so engulfed in dealing with the healthcare system all the while juggling being a mother and wife, that many never get a chance to deal with the emotions like Mitra could. "That's when I realized how good I have it here in Houston with The Rose. I'm a walking poster child of what The Rose can do for someone searching for relief when diagnosed with cancer" Mitra said. She shares, "they didn't just navigate the system, they gave me hope."

Ten years is monumental when it comes to SURVIVING breast cancer. With the aftermath of Harvey, Mitra knew that no one should ever have to survive alone. We totally agree with Mitra, "getting help isn't easy but sometimes you just have to celebrate yourself!"

The Rose was featured in Mitra's book, "This Was No Coincidence" in Chapter 8, titled "The Rose as my GPS."

Meet Rosie

Extending the circle of family

Before the first mammogram was ever done on our mobile coach christened "Rosie," she was recruited as a clinical facility for Harvey Relief and used to provide medical care for twenty-five families. We are so proud that the newest addition to our services, our first self-contained Mobile Mammography Health Coach, has such capacity. Rosie comes equipped with the latest in breast screening technology: 3D mammography as well as a separate patient examination suite which is being used for other preventive screenings and is bringing good health throughout Southeast Texas.

CPRIT Circle of Care

EXPANDING OUR SERVICE AREA

Thank you notes are always appreciated, but this one was extra special. Teresa sent us the note pictured above to share with the Cancer Prevention and Research Institute of Texas (CPRIT). While she may not know of CPRIT's incredible impact throughout Texas, she was clearly thankful that their funding had made it possible for her to receive a diagnostic work-up at The Rose.

Studies show that women in rural Texas counties have greater barriers in accessing healthcare and are more likely to have breast cancer diagnosed at a late stage which in some cases is fatal. Thank goodness CPRIT is helping us change those outcomes.

Over the next two years, CPRIT's grant of $1.3 million will allow us to serve 2,700 women in 38 counties, many of them rural areas. Their support since 2010 has allowed the expansion of our Mobile Mammography Program from the Houston Metropolitan Area to most of Southeast Texas. Most importantly, CPRIT has meant screening and care to over 10,000 women...many who just like Teresa had nowhere else to turn.

REACHING WOMEN WHERE THEY LIVE, WORK AND PRAY

Our Community Engagement Team is reaching women where they live, work and pray. Living in the regions they serve, our Team knows that "access to care" means different things to different people. Insured or uninsured, bringing breast cancer screening directly to your business, school, church or clinic means happier employees, healthier communities and lives saved. To learn more about scheduling a mobile mammography day, contact the Mobile Team at 281-464-5136 or email mobileteam@therose.org.

Welcome our newest board member

Laura Schwinn is the newest member of The Rose Board of Directors. She brings 20 years of experience at the Senior Executive Level, most recently as CEO of C&C Reservoirs, a privately held international analytic, content and software provider. Prior to that she was the first woman to hold the position of global vice president of a manufacturing and technology product service line at Halliburton, operating in over 60 countries. Her deep interest in supporting The Rose was prompted by her personal experience of losing her step-mother to breast cancer and seeing the impact this had on her sisters. She is an active advocate for equality and women and was recently honored by Houston Business Journal as one of its 2017 ten exceptional women leaders in energy. Welcome aboard, Laura!

FRONT COVER FEATURE

My name is Carrie Swatsell

Carrie Swatsell, featured on the front cover of this year's Annual Report, was diagnosed with breast cancer at 55 years old. Her family decided to lighten the mood and make her experience as positive as possible by dressing up in funny t-shirts and wearing colored wigs. It wasn't long before her social media following and circle of care grew significantly...
